6. Write a program that copies a text file from standard input to standard output, replacing each control character (other than \n) by a question mark.

7. Write a program that counts the number of sentences in a text file (obtained from standard input). Assume that each sentence ends with a .. ?, or ! followed by a white-space character (including \n).